

Death, burial and Resurrection of our Messiah

A thorough study of the Bible reveals that Yahusha was in the grave three days and three nights, and it tells us that He died just before the Passover, which was during the High Holy Days (14 Nisan, see Leviticus 23:5). This study will show that He was in the grave just before sunset on Wednesday night, according to Scripture (John 19:31); all day Thursday and Thursday night; all day Friday and Friday night, and all day Saturday (as Jonah was in the whale three days and three nights) until just before sunset on Saturday when He was resurrected.

In order to discern exactly when our Savior rose, it is important recognize a few things - beginning with the fact that the "dawning of a new day" according to אַרְבַּע is at sunset as it is getting dark; not at first light in the morning!

Did Yahusha rise from the grave on Sunday morning? Had He been there for three days and three nights? He said this was the only sign (Matt. 12:40) that He was the Messiah! Does this sign coincide with the tradition of a Good Friday crucifixion near sunset and a sunrise resurrection on Easter Sunday?

What proof did Yahusha offer that He was the Messiah? The Pharisees challenged Him on this very point and He gave them an answer—His sign that He was true: “An evil and adulterous generation seeks after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale’s belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth” (Matt. 12:39-40).

How, then, does the “Good Friday-Easter Sunday” tradition fit? Can 72 hours (three days and three nights) be made to fit into a period between late day Friday and early Sunday morning? Why do so few even seem to question this only sign that Yahusha said He would give that He was the Messiah? Could He have been wrong on this single great proof of who He was and still have been the Messiah?

Since no one directly witnessed His Resurrection, we must examine the only available authority on this great event—Scripture! Scripture is the revealed Word of Yahuah. It is His written revelation to mankind. Prepare to be shocked at what Scripture does and does not say on this vital point!

While professing Christians willingly accept the common traditions of men, true disciples (students of Scripture) of Yahusha want to know what HE says. Yahusha warned, “In vain do they worship Me teaching for doctrines, the commandments of men. For laying aside the commandment of Yahuah, you hold the tradition of men” (Mark 7:7-8).

What standard will you use? Will you accept the recorded facts of history found in Yahusha's Word—or continue with the traditions of men?

The Tremendous Importance of His Sign

Is it any surprise that HaSatan, the devil would want to deny that Yahusha was the Messiah? Is it any surprise that he would seek to relegate the story of Jonah and the whale to myth, symbolism and superstition? If this miracle never occurred, then Yahusha's sign, based entirely upon it, is nothing more than hollow and pointless allegory.

Consider what is at stake in Yahusha's statement in Matthew 12:39-40. Yahusha placed His ENTIRE IDENTITY on this sign. If He failed His only sign, then He is not our Messiah and nothing He said can be trusted. In effect, if His prophecy of this sign failed, then He must be considered a false prophet. He would be a fraud and should not be followed—and mankind has not messiah!

Do not confuse the fact of the resurrection's occurrence as being the sign, with the question of "how long", the precise length of time He would be in the grave before His resurrection took place. This was the test of His sign.

Be under no illusion about the position of Scripture critics, While it is embarrassing to watch them try to explain away Yahusha's only sign, they really have no choice. If Yahusha's sign remains intact, the Good Friday-Easter Sunday tradition would be exposed as groundless—false—and collapse in a heap!

Some Scripture (Bible) commentaries nearly leave one breathless in astonishment when they assert that three days and three nights, in the Greek language, can actually mean three periods of time—either day or night. Friday night, Saturday daylight and Saturday night are portrayed as these three "periods" of time.

At least some are honest enough to acknowledge that the Friday-Sunday tradition is, in fact, only about half the length of time that Yahusha said He would be in the grave.

What Are Days and Nights?

Can we know for certain or must we speculate on the meaning, and the definition of a day or the meaning of a night? Does Scripture leave this definition open to speculation?

Jonah 1:17 plainly says, “And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.” The Tahnakh (Old Testament) was written in Hebrew. Here, scholars face a dilemma when they explore the phrase “three days and three nights.” Some of these same “scholars” who are actually critics, acknowledge that the Hebrew language must mean a 72-hour period of time. There is no room for any “periods of time” theories in the Hebrew.

Here is the problem! Yahusha said His time in the grave would be “as Jonah was three days and three nights in the great fish’s belly...” The word “as” sets the standard of comparison. It leaves no room to “negotiate”. Jonah 2:2 even compares Jonah’s time in the “great fish” to “the grave.” In this verse, the Hebrew word translated “hell” is sheol. It literally means “the grave.” The comparison of Yahusha to Jonah—in a grave—becomes complete.

Did Yahusha understand the length of a “day” or the length of a “night”? He did! In John 11:9-10, He asked, “Are there not TWELVE HOURS in a day?...But if a man walk in the night, he stumbles.”

Scripture mentions in several places that Yahusha rose “the third day.” How long was this? The first half of the creation chapter, in Genesis 1:4-13, plainly says that Yahuah “divided the light from darkness. And Yahuah called the light Day and the darkness He called Night. And the evening (darkness) and the morning (light) were the first day... And the evening (darkness) and the morning (light) were the second day... And the evening (now THREE periods of darkness called night—three nights) and the morning (now THREE periods of light called day—three days) were the third day.”

This is Scripture’s definition of the length of time accounted for within the phrase “the third day.” It spanned three periods of darkness and three periods of light. We have proven that each of these periods is twelve hours. Six times twelve hours equals 72 hours! What could be more plain?

The Source of the Problem

We have now established the exact duration of Yahusha’s time in the tomb as a 72-hour period. He was there for three days and three nights “as Jonah was...” We will shortly examine four additional scriptures that prove the same thing.

In Mark 7:13, Yahusha strongly warns against “making the word of Yahuah of none effect through your tradition.” How is it that intelligent, well-educated Bible scholars seem to “know” that Yahusha was hung on the tree on Friday and resurrected on Sunday? What is it about Yahusha’s clear, straightforward sign that they cannot accept?

The answer lies in the comfort of long-held but clearly FALSE traditions! One of the most important rules of Scripture study is to gather all of the scriptures on a subject to get the complete picture of that subject. There are other scriptures that prove the 72-hour duration of Yahusha’s time in the tomb.

John 2:19-21 states, “Yahusha answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up...But He spoke of the temple of His body.” Clearly, the use of the phrase “in three days” means that Yahusha’s time in the tomb could not exceed 72 hours—or it would not be within the three-day period.

Conversely, Matthew 27:63 establishes Yahusha’s time in the tomb as not less than three days, or 72 hours, for it says, “After three days I will rise again.”

Examining two additional verses in Mark’s gospel account prove the same parameters of John 2 and Matthew 27. Notice Mark 8:31: “And He began to teach them, that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.” A late Friday afternoon entombment means a late Monday afternoon resurrection. It is as simple as counting one, two, three! Finally, in reference to this verse, if it stood alone without other scriptures to qualify it—it must be plainly admitted that Yahusha’s use of the word “after” does not, by itself, limit His time in the tomb to 72 hours. He could still be there longer. He just could not be there one bit less than 72 hours. This much should now be clear.

We are now ready for Mark 9:31: “They shall kill Him; and after that He is killed, He shall risethe third day.” This verse presents another limitation on Yahusha’s time in the tomb. Consider! This verse, if taken by itself, places His time in the grave between 48 and 72 hours. The phrase “the third day” caps the duration at 72 hours—but it also creates a minimum of 48 hours—or the period would be somewhere in the second day! Again, if this verse is to be taken alone, a Friday afternoon crucifixion requires a resurrection sometime after late Sunday afternoon and no later than late Monday afternoon.

Establishing the Time of the Resurrection

The following fact should be clear. The exact moment and time of day when Yahusha was placed in the tomb had to coincide with the exact time of day of His Resurrection. We must establish precisely when Yahusha was placed in the tomb. We will then know precisely when He left the tomb. Plainly, any time of day or night—morning, noon, afternoon, evening, midnight, etc.—that Yahusha would have entered the tomb would have to be the very same time He would depart it by His resurrection!

While on the stake, after “the ninth hour” (three o’clock in the afternoon), Yahusha “cried out” (Matt. 27:46-50; Mark 15:34-37; Luke 23:44-46) and died. Luke 23:44 also makes a reference to “the sixth hour, and there was darkness in all the earth until the ninth hour.” The sixth hour is six hours after sunrise—or noon! This would make the ninth hour three o’clock.

These events occurred on the day before “the Sabbath”—the day called “the preparation” (Matt. 27:62; Mark 15:42; Luke 23:54). We should recognize that Scripture counts days as the period from evening to evening (Lev. 23:32) or sunset to sunset. Recall Genesis 1: “...the evening (night or darkness) and the morning (day or light)...”

John 19:42 explains, “There laid they Yahusha therefore because of the Jews’ preparation day.” Jewish burial law (vs. 31) forbade the bodies of the dead remaining unburied at the outset of any Sabbath day or feast day. Remember, Luke 23:46 explained that Yahusha died at, or shortly after, three o’clock in the afternoon. He would have been buried soon thereafter—prior to sunset.

We have not yet established the day of the week that the crucifixion occurred. However, our previous computation and comparison of related scriptures reveals that Yahusha must have risen sometime after three o’clock in the afternoon, on whatever would have been the day that was three days later.

A brief summary is in order at this point. Again, Yahusha’s Messiahship is at stake. Based on when He was buried (sometime between three and six o’clock on the day of His crucifixion), His sign as our Messiah was that He must—I repeat He must—rise at the same time 72 hours later. Otherwise, He is an impostor and a fraud, and we have no Messiah. Unless we wish to make “the word of Yahuah of none effect through our tradition,” we must now admit that this popular, tradition of Christians has been exposed. Yet some honest questions still remain.

The Crucifixion Preceded a Sabbath—But Which Sabbath?

We have now reached the important issue of when to start counting the 72-hour period of Yahusha’s sign. It involves the Sabbath. But which Sabbath? Could this question lie at the heart of why people assume a Friday crucifixion? We have already proven from all four Gospels that the day of Yahusha’s crucifixion was called “the preparation.” John 19:14 explains “it was the preparation of the Passover.” However, verse 31 goes further by stating, “for that sabbath day was an high day.” What does this mean?

What is a Sabbath that is a high day?

Any Jewish person will tell you that a “high day” is a FEAST DAY or an ANNUAL HOLY DAY! Leviticus 23 describes seven of these days that the nation of ancient Israel was commanded to keep year by year. A simple review of this chapter (verses 24, 26-32 and 39) reveals that Yahuah considered these days to be Sabbaths.

Notice that Leviticus 23:2 refers to all of these Sabbaths as “the feasts of Yahuah” and “even these are my feasts.” This same verse also calls them “holy convocations”—meaning commanded assemblies. These days do not fall on the same day, year after year, any more than do the common pagan holidays that most people observe today.

Matthew 26:2 states, “You know that after two days is the feast of the passover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.” Leviticus 23 shows that Passover was the one feast that was also a Sabbath, wherein work was prohibited. There is no doubt that Yahusha was crucified on Passover.

The original Passover is described in Exodus 12. A lamb was slain and the blood of this lamb was struck over the doorposts of all the Israelite houses. It was this blood that caused the death angel to pass over any particular house, thus saving the firstborn of that house from death! Hence, the term “passover.”

The Old Testament Passover always preceded the annual Sabbath called the first Day of Unleavened Bread. This day was a high day or a feast day to be celebrated each year, again, on the day immediately following the Passover. Notice Numbers 28:16-17: “And in the fourteenth day of the first month is the passover of Yahuah.”

And in the fifteenth day of this month is the feast.” This feast was the first Day of Unleavened Bread.

Yahusha was slain by crucifixion on a stake/tree on the exact same day that the Passover lamb had been slain every year. “Yahusha our passover is sacrificed for us.” John the Baptist called Yahusha “the Lamb of Yahuah, which takes away the sin of the world” (John 1:29). Yahusha was crucified on the Passover and this day then would automatically be a preparation day for the feast day, or annual high day Sabbath—which was to begin almost immediately after His burial.

As mentioned, annual Sabbaths could occur on any day of the week. Tuesday and Thursday are more common than any other day for the first Day of Unleavened Bread, following the Passover. In the year of Yahusha’s crucifixion, according to the Hebrew calendar, the Passover occurred on a Wednesday! This means that the annual Sabbath had to be one day later—or Thursday! It was, in fact, THIS SABBATH that was approaching, thus requiring the swift burial of Yahusha’s body prior to its arrival. The weekly Sabbath, or Saturday, was to occur two days after that.

Which Was the Day of the Resurrection?

If Yahusha’s Resurrection was not on Sunday, then when was it? The world commonly believes that it was Sunday morning. Does Scripture say this, or is this a Tradition of Man?

John 20:1 says, “The first day of the week comes Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and sees the stone taken away from the sepulchre.” Compare this verse with Mark 16:2 and Luke 24:1.

It is now very early Sunday morning (it is still dark) and the tomb is open. Do these verses supply the supposed proof for the Sunday resurrection tradition? Do they support “Easter sunrise services”? A problem already presents itself. Christ is gone from the tomb before sunrise!

Now notice Luke 24:6. Mary Magdalene, and the others with her, are described as finding two angels standing before them. These angels stated plainly to these women, “He is not here, but is risen.” Also see Mark 16:6 and Matthew 28:5-6.

Yahusha was GONE—He was already risen! Notice the past tense of the two angels' statement.

We can now establish the day of Yahusha's resurrection. We have already established the time of day of His death and the burial soon thereafter and, therefore, also the time of His resurrection. It was late afternoon, between 3 and 6 p.m. Obviously, Yahusha was already risen, by this time, in the darkness of Sunday morning, because He had been gone from the grave since late afternoon on SATURDAY! Let us state this plainly.

Yahusha died on the late afternoon of a Wednesday, Passover and was resurrected three days later on the late afternoon of the very next Saturday. Thus, the resurrection did not even occur on Sunday—period!

Yahusha's Sign Fulfilled

Who will you believe? Will it be theologians, scholars, Pastors, Preacher, Church doctrine and other traditionalists, who love to profess Jesus, but reject the sign He gave? Or will you believe the words of Scripture (your Bible)—that Yahusha rose from the grave exactly as He said He would?

It is now time to read a different Scriptural account of the two angels' statement to the women at the tomb. This time notice Matthew 28:6. It states, "He is not here: for He is risen, as He said." This would be impossible if Yahusha had been in the grave one second more or one second less than 72 hours. The One who said, "Are there not twelve hours in a day?" was well aware of exactly how long His sign required that He remain in the "belly of the earth"—the grave.

Not only did Yahusha state that He would fulfill His sign but it was also established by the mouth of two witnesses (Deut. 17:6; 19:15), who happened to be mighty angels of Yahuah.

Paul adds a final, great, corroborating proof that Yahusha did spend three entire days and three entire nights—from late Wednesday afternoon until late Saturday afternoon in the tomb. In I Corinthians 15:3-4, Paul validates the words of Yahusha and the two angels who witnessed His fulfillment.

Notice: "For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Yahusha died for our sins according to the scriptures; And that He was buried, and that He rose again THE THIRD DAY according to the scriptures."

Further, the prophet Daniel gave a prophecy he described as “seventy weeks” (Dan. 9:24-27). In this prophecy, the Messiah was foretold to be cut off “in the midst of the week.” Wednesday is literally the fourth, or middle day, of a seven-day week. So then, it was in the “midst of the week” that Yahusha was “cut off.” (It should be noted that this prophecy in Daniel was a foretelling of Yahusha also being “cut off” in the midst of His ministry—after 3 1/2 years (Fall A.D. 27 to Spring A.D. 31) if the Scriptural application of “a day for a year” is properly applied to the seventieth week of that prophecy.

Are There Other Questions for Examination?

Some ask about Mark 16:9. Certain people suppose that this verse proves the Sunday resurrection theory. Does it? Simply reading the verse makes plain that it does not say Yahusha “was rising” but rather He “was risen” from the grave. Take time to read the verse. It uses past tense because, as we have seen, Yahusha had been gone from the grave for about twelve hours (since late Saturday afternoon) by this time on Sunday morning.

But what about Luke 24:21? It states, “...and beside all this, today is the third day since these things were done.” The phrase “these things” is a reference to all the events related to the crucifixion. Verses 18-20 describe the particulars of “these things” to be Yahusha’s delivery to Pilate, His trial, His crucifixion, His beating, His death, up to the setting of the seal and the watch over His tomb, which occurred the following day, Thursday. This discussion occurred on Sunday, and Sunday was the third day since all of “these things” were completed (on Thursday) with the setting of the watch on Yahusha’s tomb. Therefore, this is not a verse which can be used to set aside everything that all of the other scriptures on this subject have proven.

Final Proof

Matthew 28:1 contains an important statement that bears examination before this subject can be laid to rest. Notice that this verse begins with the phrase “In the end of the Sabbath.” Most versions render it this way, but some use the phrase “After the Sabbath.” The correct translation reads “after the Sabbaths” (plural). The original Scripture has the word “SABBATHS” in the plural. This is important. We will see why.

Notice Mark 16:1: “Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices.” Their purpose was to anoint the body of Yahusha. They were not able to buy their spices until after the Sabbath was passed. Yet Luke 23:56 explains that they prepared these spices “and rested the Sabbath day according to the commandment.” While this may appear confusing, it need not be if these two passages are studied carefully.

Only one possible explanation emerges. It is that these women bought and prepared their spices on Friday, after the Thursday annual high day Sabbath of Passover or the first feast day of Unleavened Bread and then rested on the weekly Sabbath, which was Saturday according to Yahuah's plain command found in Exodus 20:8-11.

Mark 16:1 and Luke 23:56 must refer to two separate Sabbaths of that crucifixion week, with a day in between, Friday. Any other explanation creates a contradiction of scripture.

Sunday “The Lord’s Day” Baal's Day

There is another very important reason why theologians and many others must conclude that the resurrection was on Sunday! Sunday is commonly referred to as “the Lord’s (Baal's) Day.” The term “the Lord’s Day” has come to be synonymous with Sunday. But why? The reason is simple. If Sunday can be established as the day that their Christ was resurrected, it can be a means of validating and “authorizing” the keeping of Sunday by the churches of the world, in place of Yahuah's true Sabbath.

You have already seen references to the Sabbath day. Exodus 20:8-11 shows that the keeping of the Sabbath is the Fourth Commandment! It was always the seventh day of the week and Yahuah never authorized Sunday, which would be keeping the first day instead.

Yahuah Set it Apart and Honored it at creation, long before there were any Jews or Israelites to keep it (Gen. 2:1). The Sabbath was to be kept “forever”, “continually” and “throughout the generations” of Israel, Yahuah's intended model nation (Ex. 31:12-17).

Yahusha kept it (Luke 4:16) and said that He was Adonai of it and that it was “made for man” (Mark 2:27-28). He did not say it was “made for the Jews only.” Paul observed it (Acts 13:42, 44; 17:2; 18:4).

The subject of keeping the Sabbath as Yahuah's command for true believers is a big subject and is very important as Scripture has declared.

Therefore this study has proven that the Good Friday and Easter Sunday tradition is totally FALSE if Yahusha was in the grave for 72 hours instead of 36.

The largest single reason for the unscriptural tradition (recall Mark 7:7) of Sunday-keeping collapses at the same time. Yahuah has always said, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy" (Ex. 20:8). He has never said, "Remember Sunday to keep it holy and just call it the Lord's day!"

After knowing the truth about this subject you need to reject this Christian Tradition of Man and seek to honor Yahuah's Commanded Sababth's including his 7th Day Sabbath!
