"YAHU" Chosen Yahu

This name is written two different ways - אליה, pronounced as "eliy-Yah" or אליהו, pronounced as "eliy-Yahu". There are three components to this name. The first is אל (al/el) the Hebrew word for "power" and "authority" and is commonly translated as God or god. The י is a letter added to the end of a noun to mean "my" hence אלי means "my Alahym (God)". The י also doubles as the first letter of the next part of the name - ה (Yah) or יהו (Yahu). Both "Yah" and "Yahu" are two different forms of the tetragrammaton יהוה (YHUH), the name of God. The root of YHUH as well as Yah and Yahu is היה literally meaning "to breath (AH)".

To the ancient Hebrews, only that which can be perceived through the senses (sight, feeling, hearing, smell or taste) is believed to exist. This is why the ancients usually erected statues of a god. When Moses asked Yahuah "who should I tell them has sent me?" Yahuah said, tell them "haYAH asher haYAH" has sent you. While this phrase is commonly translated as "I exist because I exist (I AM that I AM)" it is better understood as "I breathe and I have breath".

In the Hebrew mind that which "exists" has breath, this can be a god, man, animal or even a mountain. The breath (often translated as spirit) is the character of an individual or object. Yahuah may not be seen but he is breath and does exist.

When each of these components are combined the name means "my Alahym (God) is YAH". But as the word אל (al/el) means power and authority יהוה means "to have breath", we can see the meaning "My authority is the one who has breath".

Origin of YAHU

Ancient Paleo transliteration of the Hebrew tetragrammaton YHUH (YHWH/YHVH) as some modern scholars believe it was pronounced before the Yahu's/Jews ceased to pronounce it about three centuries b.c. (Babylonian Captivity)

The Hebrew word Yahu (Yahoo) is a name of Elohim (God) Yahuah. It is commonly found at the end of people's names. It represents a Divine attribute added to the name. For example, YeshaYahu (Isaiah) means "Yahuah's redemption," YirmiYahu (Jeremiah) means "Fear of Yahuah."

I sometimes wonder if the internet company Yahoo! became such a major success simply because Yahuah likes that they chose his name!
